FROM THE PRINCIPAL

G'day Everyone

I hope that some fun was had over the two week break.

Pupil Free Day

Monday 17 August is a Pupil Free Day to allow the teaching staff to attend workshops in Lock (Primary) and Port Lincoln (Secondary). The opportunity for staff to collaborate with other staff and develop learning plans and strategies to ensure that we are improving the delivery of curriculum across the school.

Led Steer/Wether

I would like to thank the community members and students who have been helping the school to get our wethers and steers ready. We are hoping that there will be an opportunity to show our steer and wethers. I would also like to thank the Ag Steering Committee and students for their work in the Ag block. The paddocks are looking really good more rain would be beneficial of course. Our vision includes more covered and enclosed areas for storage of equipment, new sheep yards, shearing stand, loading ramp, all of these need to be at industry standards and best practice. If you can help or want to get involved please come into the school. We are also keen to research what further courses there are for students and how to best set to help our students develop the skills necessary for the future of farming. We are trying to organise a study tour to universities, schools, and various industry end points for product.

Facilities

New posts have been placed at the front of the school. Gardens have been revamped to get rid of any possibility of snakes and improving the playground facility for students. The Year Twelve building has been raised and the stumps replaced due to being rotted out. We may have other buildings to fix the same way to ensure that they are still viable learning spaces.

COVID-19

As we have seen, the COVID-19 pandemic can be unpredictable. We have been directed that we must:

- Continue to plan two weeks of learning in advance.
- Take your devices and any key teaching/work resources home at the end of each day.
- Have the most up-to-date contact details (including phone number) for all parents so they can be quickly contacted in the event of a temporary closure or regional closure.
- Practice physical distancing at all times in the workplace.
- If staff are unwell, they must stay home.

Assembly

Due to COVID-19 we are working on the best strategy for our assembly we have lots of achievements to celebrate and doing that in front of the whole school is our preferred option. We were hoping that the pandemic restrictions would have eased after the school holidays. Unfortunately they haven't and we will be organizing an assembly in a different format from our normal Room 16 assemblies.

Parent Teacher Interviews

We will be conducting Parent teacher interviews this term. Unfortunately due to COVID-19 the format for this will be different to our preferred method of lots of people visiting the school for interviews. Both Glenys and Karen have outlines of Parent Teacher Interviews in this edition of the newsletter. If you require a face to face interview please negotiate this with your students' teachers.

Governing Council

Our next meeting will be on Tuesday 15 October at 7.00pm in the Conference Room.

Let's hope we get some more rain soon!!

Yours truly

Ned Loades

Principal

FROM THE PASTORAL CARE WORKER

Here we are over halfway through our school year with lots of challenges ahead. I am so grateful to be living in South Australia as we see the lockdowns in Victoria. I pray our state will continue to be a safe place to live and we will all work together to keep it this way. Many of us are missing loved ones across the border and when the time is right travel will be permitted again. Until then we must be positive and encourage one another in the months ahead. Do trust staff and students have had a few relaxing days during the holidays! During my last two weeks I have spent time with my elderly mother and family in Port Lincoln and some great days at beautiful Port Neill. Bring on some more rain!

Cheers! Carol

FROM THE ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL – SECONDARY

Welcome back to Term 3

It is hoped that everyone had an enjoyable July holiday break and are eager to achieve highly in all areas of school life for the remainder of the school year.

Semester 2 commenced for all Secondary students this week, with many Year 8-11 students changing subjects for the semester. The Year 12 students continue with their subjects for the remainder of the year, which is quickly passing. Students are still working on completing their Research Project assessments, but it is hoped that these will be concluded early this term. I implore them to make the best use of their time for the remainder of the year (all subject results need to be finalised early in Term 4) so students really need to focus their attention of completing summative assessment work in an organised and timely manner. The time for procrastination is over – heads down and maximise your learning time in order to achieve the scores that will allow you to move into the next phase of your lives!

Teacher/Parent/Student Interviews

Due to the continued COVID-19 restrictions, interviews in their traditional mode can still not take place. It is planned that either individual face-to-face or telephone interviews be conducted during Weeks 2 & 3 of this term, commencing on Monday 27 July. For parents of Secondary students, should you wish to have an interview with subject teachers, could you please contact the school (either by phone – 86802263 or through the school email system – dl.0765.info@schools.sa.edu.au). We will need to know the name of the student, year level and the teachers with whom you would like to have an interview. Your preference for a personal or telephone interview would also be needed within this communication. Should individual subject teachers believe that they need an interview with parents based on student performance, they will contact parents to arrange a time to meet or make a phone call. Given these unusual times we are trying to find alternative ways of ensuring that the flow of information between home and school is maximised to allow students to achieve their very best. Thank you for your assistance in making sure that we are supporting students in the best possible manner.

PAT Testing

As a part of the Literacy and Numeracy Improvement Strategy, Department for Education requires all students from Year 3 to 10 to undertake online PAT Reading Comprehension and PAT Maths assessments. This will again occur during August and September. The results from these tests will provide yet another layer of information about student learning and achievement in the very important areas of literacy and numeracy; this will also be very applicable to all other learning areas so that we can work with students to improve their skills in these areas and improve their overall learning outcomes. The benefit of these online tests is that we have immediate access to student results and can begin the process of analysing areas of student strength and determining areas that need development. During the past years teaching staff have spent considerable time analysing the results from these tests and determining areas where students need additional work and support to improve their Literacy and Numeracy skills and abilities and this process will continue throughout the remainder of 2020.

LEADERSHIP COMPETITION - COVID-19 FAQ'S

Are you aware of COVID-19?

Yes, we are aware that COVID-19 will be with us for some time - we think it is crucial that we have a plan for this, and communicate with you.

If I enter and win, will the Power Trip go ahead in 2020?

We want as many Year 10, 11, and 12 girls from regional Australia to enter our Leadership Competition as possible, to have a chance at winning and participating in our life-changing Power Trip in Canberra. The Power Trip dates currently are 28 November to 2 December and our team is working hard to make this a reality. We are cautiously optimistic and will communicate any developments to the best of our abilities. However, due to the uncertainty around COVID-19, we cannot provide any guarantees and reserve the right to make any changes to the Leadership Competition Prize, including the possibility of postponement and cancellation. Our Terms and Conditions, available on our website, have more specific details.

What precautions are you taking?

As part of our planning, we are developing a COVID-19 Plan and following the most up-to-date advice from Safe Work Australia, Department of Health, and the ACT Government. This may include increased hygiene measures, social distancing, reduction of numbers, and health checks. We may ask you to seek professional medical advice prior to travel.

What if travel restrictions are still in place in my state/territory?

Unfortunately, public health orders and travel restrictions are beyond the control of Country to Canberra. However, we are still committed to providing an amazing prize for our winners, as we know what a difference our programs can make. If you are a Power Trip winner and unable to travel out of your state or require a quarantine period, we will work with you to provide an alternative prize arrangement that does not include transport to Canberra. This may be in the form of accessing our mentor network and/or attending sessions via video. The form this will take will be up to the discretion of Country to Canberra and will be in line with the most up-to-date public health and travel advice.

What if travel options are not available or extremely restricted due to reduced capacity caused by COVID-19?

We know that COVID-19 has reduced the capacity of many transport operators, especially to regional and remote areas. We will work with you to provide reasonable transport arrangements. This may take longer than usual. If reasonable transport arrangements cannot be made, we reserve the right to provide an alternative prize arrangement that does not include transport to Canberra. This may be in the form of accessing our mentor network and/or attending sessions via video. The form this will take will be up to the discretion of Country to Canberra.

There seems to be a lot of uncertainties, should I still enter?

Absolutely! We're still working hard to plan an amazing Power Trip this year, and while it might look different to previous years, our goal is to make it as life-changing as ever.

This year, our response question is:

"Lifting us up: How can women and girls empower each other and their communities in times of uncertainty and change?"

2020 has been a year of uncertainty and change, and we want you to reflect on what women and girls have done to help and lead their communities. This can be in your local area or internationally. It can be any issue you feel strongly about. Most importantly, we want this to be a chance for you to reflect on what you have done and what you can do to be a better leader.

Travel Trends

Australians are well known throughout the world for their adventurous spirit and love of travelling. Ever wonder how much of Australia's population actually travels abroad? Here are some insights from the Australian Bureau of Statistics.

The number of Australian residents travelling internationally on holiday, business or other reasons has been growing at a rapid pace in recent years, and 2012 was no different. In 2012, a record-breaking 8.2 million residents left Australia's borders. That's 31 out of 100 residents travelling overseas! This shows considerable growth from 7.8 million residents travelling abroad in 2011, and from only 3.5 million residents travelling abroad in 2002.

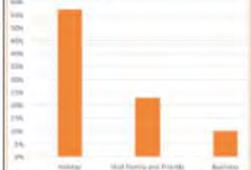

There are a number of factors influencing this rise in international travel: from a strong Australian dollar to competitive airline rates. Perhaps this rising trend also reflects globalisation and the increased ease of international travel.

Of all 29.8 million border crossings in Australia, about half of those were departures with 8.2 million residents leaving to travel abroad. Since 2008 residents departing for international travel now exceeds visitors to Australia.

Australians go abroad for short-term (less than one year) and long-term (permanent or more than one year) travel. The number of residents departing for short-term travel abroad was 6.1 million in 2012, while the number of residents departing for permanent or long-stay abroad was only 372,000.

Reasons for travel

Using airline passenger cards to determine reasons for international travel in 2012, the ABS determined that Australian residents depart the country for a wide range of reasons including:

| Reason               | Percentage |
|----------------------|------------|
| Holiday              | 61%        |
| Business and friends | 20%        |
| Business             | 19%        |

Age of travelers

The average age of travelling residents has slowly risen over the past decade. In 2001, the peak age group for international travel was those aged 45-49. In 2012, however, the peak age group has changed to those aged 50-54. The top three travelling age-groups are:

| Age Group | Percentage |
|-----------|------------|
| 50-54     | 24%        |
| 45-49     | 18%        |
| 55-59     | 15%        |

Travel Destinations

While on holiday to foreign countries, the majority of Australians travelled to the 10 destinations listed below:

| Destination    | Percentage |
|----------------|------------|
| New Zealand    | 13.4%      |
| Indonesia      | 12.9%      |
| United States  | 12.8%      |
| Thailand       | 12.7%      |
| United Kingdom | 12.6%      |
| China          | 12.5%      |
| EU             | 12.4%      |
| Singapore      | 12.3%      |
| Malaysia       | 12.2%      |
| Hong Kong      | 12.1%      |

In 2012, the median length of holiday was 15 days. The length of time abroad tends to increase with the type of countries of destination. Trips to nearby countries such as Indonesia and New Zealand tended to be only for 7 days for business and 14 days for holiday, while trips to Europe and the United States tended to last 11-16 days for business and a month or more for holidays.

International travel by Australian residents continues to grow, and the trend is expected to rise over the foreseeable future. As the global economy recovers, it will be interesting to see how both international departure and arrival trends evolve.

Once an optimum speed is reached, the parachute is deployed and the skier is lifted in the air while being pulled by a high speed boat. Parasailers can travel up to 100 feet upwards into the air. Flying above the ocean is one of the most refreshing and fascinating experiences that you can have. The view of your paradise island from a bird's eye view is breathtaking and the turquoise blue ocean glitters under your feet.

Kayaking

Explore the shimmering expanse of the island lagoons under your own power in a solo or tandem kayak. You can keep it simple with classic ocean kayaks. Paddle away towards the sunset or take a break by heading on a little weather on the edge of the lagoon.

What are The Islands of Tahiti

The islands of Tahiti consist of 118 islands and atolls, officially known as French Polynesia.

The island of Tahiti is the largest island in French Polynesia and is the most well-known. But, to new visitors, it is important to remember that the entirety of the 118 is of French Polynesia are referred to as The Islands of Tahiti. The official languages spoken on The Islands of Tahiti are Tahitian and French, but English is spoken at most hotels and resorts, so don't worry, learning a few French and Tahitian phrases will make you a favourite among the locals, though!

If you are planning a trip to French Polynesia, you probably already know that it is only an eight-hour flight from California and that it is in the same time zone as Hawaii. Most people picture an island paradise with miles of white sand beaches surrounded by lagoons. There are also extinct volcanic mountains, coral atolls, dense rainforests, giant tiki, and even a UNESCO Biosphere Reserve (Fakarua). You may be surprised to learn that each of the 118 is and atolls feels distinctive, with local customs and traditions that differ from one island to the next. When visiting, try to spend time on three or more to experience the cultural differences on each. You may discover your favourite island is one you'd never heard of!

The Islands of Tahiti offer a rare opportunity for visitors to enjoy seclusion on an uninhabited island, swim in 84-degree Fahrenheit water, and trek through the cooler temperatures of the rainforest all at the same day. Visitors to Tahiti will discover thousands of different birds, plants and flowers, including the true symbol of The Islands of Tahiti, the orchid flower (aka the Tahitian gardenia, aka Gardenia tahitensis).

As the essential symbol of The Islands of Tahiti, this flower is worn by both men and women, either around their necks fashioned in a necklace (lei), on their heads as a crown (hep), or, as mentioned, placed behind their ears. Placing the flower on the left side of your ear means you're taken while placing it on the right means you're looking!

The 118 is and atolls that make up The Islands of Tahiti are spread across five archipelagos in the South Pacific Ocean and are known as the Society Is, Tuamotu, Austral, Marquesas, and the Gambier Is. Combined, the archipelagos are equivalent to the size of Europe, which is about two million square miles.

The capital city of The Islands of Tahiti is Papeete, located on the island of Tahiti in the Society Islands group which also includes Moorea and Bora Bora. Visitors to the island of Tahiti will discover black sand beaches on the East Coast, white sand beaches on the West Coast, and many activities available including diving, surfing, and land tours. Journey into the heart of the island to discover Papenoo Valley, with lush jungles and an endless array of waterfalls. Tourists will fall in love with Papeete's infamously colourful market, as the public market in Papeete is in every sense the heart of the city. Le Marche, as the municipal market is called, is the place to find local

The average age of travelling residents has slowly risen over the past decade. In 2001, the peak age group for international travel was those aged 50-54. The top three travelling age-groups are:

| 50-54     | 24%        |
| 45-49     | 18%        |
| 55-59     | 15%        |

Although the proportion of Australian residents travelling abroad continues to decline for those ages 25-49 years of age, including young families with children, the number of these residents choosing to holiday overseas continues to rise. Tourism Australia has recently launched a campaign targeting the 50-54 age demographic, encouraging them and their families to vacation domestically in order to keep the local tourism economy strong. International travel by Australian residents continues to grow, and the trend is expected to rise over the foreseeable future.

The Joys of Country Living
To create this image, I layered 2 images over the top of one another. To create the main image, I layered a picture of a sunset (Layer 1) and two people riding a horse (Layer 2). Layer 2 had an opacity of 87% and Layer one had an opacity of 45%. To make the horses and riders stand out from the background I used the eraser tool on the sunset image (Layer One). The background on layer 2 was a pink sunset which showed through a tiny bit, but it still adds a dreamy effect. On another image I used the quick selection tool and selected two birds in the image. I then used 'rub and mask' to make the image smooth and blend. I used the lasso tool and selected the image background. I added the birds (at 100% and lightness: 40) to my main image. Next, I added a layer: here to layer 1 just to try it but ended up really liking it because it adds an extra aspect and lightens the image. The two birds' settings were 100% Opacity and 100% lightness and I placed it in the top left-hand corner just above the main rider. I wanted to make this image more complex, so I added a bear (at 80). This image portrays the joys of country living better than the moon. I also believe that the software I used is complex enough and is used well to create an image.

Party Like There's No Tomorrow
To create this image, I layered 3 images over one another. Layer 0 has an opacity of 100% with no filter, layer 1 has an opacity of 100% but has the filter lightened on it and layer 2 has an opacity of 70% and has the filter 'colour dodge' over it. The text on this image says: "DANCE, like no one's watching... WORK, like no one's noticing... PARTY, like there's no tomorrow". The text has a yellow stroke with an opacity of 50%. The size of the stroke is 1. The theme of this image is party, fun, enjoying and social. I believe that the software I used is complex enough and has been used to create an image that demonstrated the themes above.

Fear of Dying
To create this image, I layered 10 images not directly over each other but over a base image. The base image is a key with a surgical mask with the filter 'vivid light' with an opacity of 50%. Then to give a 'cool' look, I added a blue-blue layer underneath the key. In each corner there is a picture of things that could kill you such as time which is represented by a clock, pollution which is represented by plastic bottles, stress or sadness which is represented by the highest stress of my time 'the coronavirus', a skull which represents aging and the old signs graph which leads to the clock. The first clock image has an opacity of 20%, plastic bottles (image has opacity of 20%), the stress virus (image has an opacity of 20%) and the skull I used the eraser tool with an opacity of 20% and used around the edges to make it blend in with the background. In the darkest part of the image I added a hospital corridor which has an opacity of 40% but I did not need to erase any of the image as it blended in well with the background scene. The red 'lightning bolt' above the middle of the image is there to represent running out of time and a temperature gauge getting hotter. All shapes have blend and soften on the default setting. The first and second shapes have opacity of 20% and the third shape has an opacity of 40%. I believe that the software I used is complex enough and has been used to create an image that demonstrated the fear of dying better than the moon.

Year 11 & 12 students have completed a range of documents and images using the Adobe Creative Cloud software suite. Their work is to be commended for its creativity and visual appeal.
